Array of events to spotlight plight of LGBTI community

TODAY, is International Day against Homophobia and Transphobia.

It was created in 2004 to draw the attention of policymakers, opinion leaders, social movements, the public and media to the violence and discrimination experienced by LGBTI people internationally.

The theme of today is Mental Health and Wellbeing – and a special event has been arranged in Pretoria.

The Embassy of France, the High Commission of Canada, the Alliance Française of Pretoria, OUT Wellbeing and the University of Pretoria’s Centre for Sexualities, Aids and Gender have joined forces to organise a two-day event to be hosted at the Alliance Française of Pretoria, 99 Rivier Street, Sunnyside.

The event will be opened by French ambassador to South Africa Elisabeth Barbier and Canadian High Commissioner Sandra McCardell at 6pm, followed by a conversation with Dr Zamo Mbele on mental health with a focus on the LGBTI community. There will be a performance by Drama for Life. On Saturday from 2pm, there will be the screening of Laurence Anyways, a film about impossible love.

The Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Gabonese Republic, Calixte Isidore Nse Edang met South Africa’s Deputy Minister of International Relations and Co-operation Luwellyn Landers in, Libreville, Gabon, on May 12.

The visit was aimed at strengthening bilateral political and economic relations.

Bilateral economic relations between South Africa and Gabon are steadily growing, with total trade last year totalling just over R630 million. South African exports to Gabon totalled about R520 million. The visit also provided an opportunity to exchange views on regional, continental and international issues of mutual concern.
